for several hours. It reported a permission error when I tried to load the data. Could this be related to one of the newest versions of the software? A: I have figured it out, when I have removed the lmfdh_v2.zip, the program did not report any errors. UW-Madison commits $14M to school construction MADISON — Nearly $14 million in state grants will help pay for construction projects at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and six other universities across the state. UW-Madison will receive $5.2 million in state funds that can be used for capital construction, including student housing, scholarships, dining halls, theaters and athletic facilities, Chancellor Phyllis Wise announced Tuesday. The Chancellor's Grant Program provides funds to support capital projects across the state. The University of Wisconsin System will receive a total of $68.2 million to finance construction projects at universities and the Wisconsin Technical College System. Each of the 10 universities, as well as the technical college system, will receive up to $2 million from the state, but Madison will get the largest allocation of funds, Wise said. She said it reflects the size of the UW-Madison campus. The Chancellor's Grant Program had a successful first year, Wise said, as only about half of the projects received approval. Wise said she expects this year will be similar, and that there could be even more grants coming in. The Chancellor's Grant Program is designed to encourage universities to build facilities on campus, Wise said. "It's good for the university, it's good for the students, and it's good for the taxpayer," she said. Wise said the money could be used for any type of construction projects, including bathrooms, offices, classrooms and athletic facilities. The chancellor said the program also provides a way to help out underfunded schools. "When we've talked about the budget situation in the state, we've also talked about the fact that some of the state universities are not being adequately supported," she said. Madison would not receive any new state money for scholarships or student housing this year. That will only come from gifts from alumni and the community, Wise said. To close the gap for the program, the university raised $5 million from its foundation last year. 82157476af
